About

Founded in 1973, the Infusion Nurses Society (INS) is the only organization serving healthcare professionals administering intravenous therapy to patients. INS members are primarily registered/licensed nurses, pharmacists, doctors and students working in a variety of settings including hospitals, home care, hospices, outpatient/ambulatory centers and physician's offices. Members work in a large number of practice areas including pediatrics, oncology, TPN, transfusion therapy, pharmacology, vascular access, research, education and administration.

As an integral part of a patient's care, INS members specialize in administering parenteral fluids, blood & blood components, pharmacological agents, nutritional solutions and pain medications.

Benefits of INS membership include a subscription to the bi-monthly publication, the Journal of Infusion Nursing, digital access to the Standards of Practice, access to education, meetings, national education programs, certification and recertification programs.
