About

Founded in 1934, the American College of Rheumatology (ACR) is the leading medical society for physicians, health professionals and scientists committed to improving the care of patients with rheumatic disease and advancing the rheumatology subspecialty.

The Association of Rheumatology Health Professionals (ARHP), a membership division of the ACR, serves non-physician health care professionals specializing in rheumatology, such as advanced practice nurses, nurses, occupational therapists, physical therapists, psychologists, social workers, epidemiologists, physician assistants, educators, clinicians, researchers, research coordinators and office staff.

Due to the dynamic nature of medicine, ACR members need to stay current with the latest technology and research. They are an ideal target audience for a variety of offers and high-ticket items to help build, support and enhance their profession.
